

Russia's Luch (Olymp) was rarely in compliance during the study period.

From its launch in September 2014 to the end of the study period, Luch (Olymp) was in compliance with the physical portion of one of Russia's active space networks 15.5 percent of the time and out of compliance 84.5 percent of the time.

